ABOUT CITY PASTORS.

REV. A. R. MOORE, OF MARSHALL STREET, HAS RESIGNED.

An Influential Church in Washington Has Its Eye on a Popular Richmond Preacher—Rev. A. C. Berryman Sick.

The congregation of Marshall-street Christian church are in distress over the resignation of their pastor, Rev. A. R. Moore, who has accepted a call to a large and influential church in Minneapolis, Minn.

Mr. Moore's resignation was a great shock to Marshall-street church, as no one expected it. No action was taken, but it is understood that an effort will be made to get him to reconsider.

Mr. Moore came to Richmond from Alabama a few years ago to become one of the editors of the Missionary Weekly. After that paper was consolidated with the Christian Advocate, he succeeded Rev. L. A. Coker as pastor at Marshall-street. He has done a good work there, and the church has prospered under his care.

Mr. Moore is very popular in the city, and his departure will be a great loss to the people of his own faith in Virginia.

bling saloons, are thrown before your eyes with such vividness and realism that it is easy to imagine you are there. Mr. Harper illustrated the many temptations thrown out to lure the victims into the sordid hell, from which so many never return after having breathed the infectious air, which seems to intoxicate their minds and lead them on through all the various stages of a horrible ruin, the heart of the audience was small, but they were appreciative.

The next lecturer in the Lyceum course is Mr. Leland Powers, and it is hoped that he will be greeted by a large audience.
